

GIANT CIRCUMFLEX ARTERY ANEURYSM WITH ARTERIOVENOUS FISTULA TO THE CORONARY SINUS

W Samir Cubas¹, Héctor Bedoya-Copello¹, Walter LLerena-Taco¹, Lissette Aliaga-Sánchez¹, and José Ruiz-Peñañiel¹

¹Department of Thoracic and Cardiovascular Surgery, Edgardo Rebagliati Martins National Hospital

July 21, 2020

Abstract

We present the extremely rare case of a circumflex artery aneurysm with an arteriovenous fistula to the coronary venous sinus in a 20-year-old male patient, requiring surgical management due to the clinical presentation of this unusual condition.

REFERENCES

1. Watanabe T, Saotome M, Kumazawa A, Urushida T, Katoh H, Satoh H, et al. Giant and aneurysmal left circumflex coronary fistula to coronary sinus-Cardiovascular computed tomography imaging before and after surgical operation. J Cardiol Cases. 2012;5(2):e96-e9.
2. Blanco Herrera OR, Torregrosa-Puerta S, Domínguez-Massa C, Guevara-Bonilla A, Fonfria C, García JM, et al. Giant Circumflex Aneurysm With Arteriovenous Fistula Surgery Guided by Three-Dimensional Printing. Ann Thorac Surg. 2020;110(1):e1-e4.
3. Bernhardt AM, Gulbins H, Reichenspurner H. Successful treatment of a dilated circumflex artery and coronary sinus fistula. Thorac Cardiovasc Surg Rep. 2013;2(1):2-5.

