

ACQUIRED DOUBLE PYLORUS PRESENTING AS A GASTROINTESTINAL BLEEDING

Sarra Laabidi¹, Asma Ben Mohamed², amal khsiba³, Manel Yakoubi², Moufida Mahmoudi², Mouna Medhioub², Lamine Hamzaoui², and Mohamed Msaddak Azzouz²

¹University of Tunis El Manar

²Mohamed Tahar Maamouri Hospital

³Mohamed Taher Maamouri Hospital

January 24, 2022

Abstract

Gastroduodenal fistula (GDF) is a rare endoscopy finding that can be acquired or congenital. We present the case of a 65-year-old male without medical past history who was admitted for gastrointestinal bleeding secondary to peptic ulcer. The case shows an acquired double pylorus, due to pre pyloric ulcer.

Hosted file

DP1 (2).pdf available at <https://authorea.com/users/456882/articles/553840-acquired-double-pylorus-presenting-as-a-gastrointestinal-bleeding>

