

Atypical Presentation of Adenosine Deaminase-2 Deficiency with Bi-allelic ADA2 Mutation

Reem Ali AlShaikh<sup>1</sup>, Dimah Saad Alnowaiser<sup>1</sup>, Abdul Ali Peer Zada<sup>1</sup>, Awatif AlMutairi<sup>2</sup>, and Hamzah AlGhamdi<sup>2</sup>

<sup>1</sup>King Fahad Medical City

<sup>2</sup>KFMC

July 4, 2022

Abstract

Herein, we report a case of VAIHS with atypical clinical presentation of perianal abscess, fistula fever and bicytopenia including pathogenic ADA2 mutation suggesting that ADA2 deficiency be considered as a differential diagnosis of enlarging cutaneous abscess with no evidence of wound healing in the setting of leukopenia and neutropenia.

DOI: 10.1002/ccr3.5408

CORRIGENDUM

In the article entitled “Atypical presentation of adenosine deaminase 2 deficiency with bi-allelic ADA2 mutation” which was previously published in Volume 10 Issue 3 of Clinical Case Reports, the corresponding author’s email id was published incorrectly. It has been updated as hamalghamdi@kfmc.med.sa , in this version.

REFERENCE

Al-shaikh R, Alnowaiser D, Peer-Zada AA, Almutairi A, Alghamdi H. Atypical presentation of adenosine deaminase 2 deficiency with bi-allelic ADA2 mutation. Clin Case Rep. 2022;10:e05408. doi:10.1002/ccr3.5408