

Recurrent malignant peritoneal mesothelioma treated by a second resection: A case report

Takashi Miyata¹, Hisashi Nishiki¹, Yuki Shinden¹, Shota Motoyama¹, Yuta San-nomiya¹, Hozumi Tamezawa¹, Taigo Nagayama¹, Ryosuke Kin¹, Akifumi Hashimoto¹, Daisuke Kaida¹, Yasuto Tomita¹, Naohiko Nakamura¹, Tomoharu Miyashita¹, Hideto Fujita¹, Nobuhiko Ueda¹, and Hiroyuki Takamura¹

¹Kanazawa Medical University Hospital

December 12, 2022

Abstract

Malignant peritoneal mesothelioma, a rare disease with a very poor prognosis, is seldom treated surgically, especially for recurrence. However, early diagnosis and aggressive treatment of primary and recurrent tumors, particularly the localized type of malignant peritoneal mesothelioma, can achieve long-term patient survival.

Hosted file

main document.doc available at <https://authorea.com/users/445111/articles/612602-recurrent-malignant-peritoneal-mesothelioma-treated-by-a-second-resection-a-case-report>

Figure 1

Figure 2

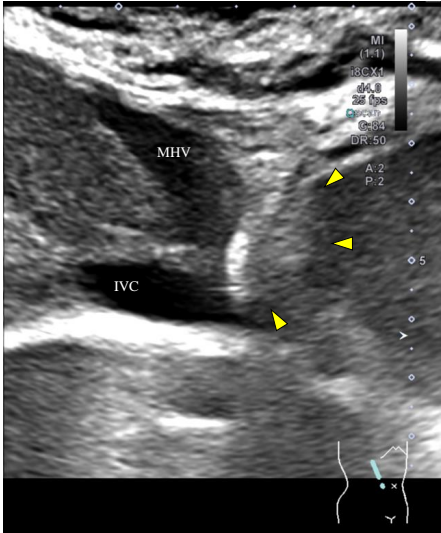

Figure 3

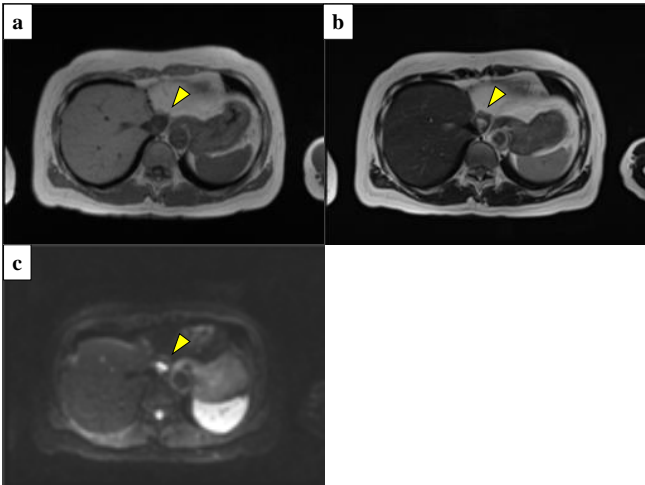

Figure 4

Figure 5

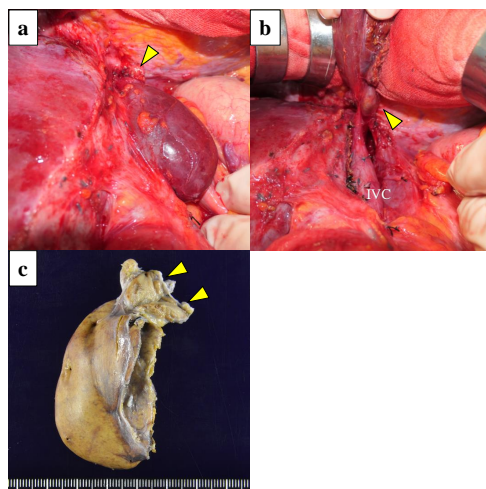

Figure 6

