

A

B

The axis for these will be something that represents strength of social interactions, probably not just the parameter s , but more likely a combination of s and the size of the 'social interaction zone'

The main text will focus on a certain parameter case, and other relevant parameter ranges will be included in the supplemental figures