

My friend Lucas and Foldscope

MANU PRAKASH

 READ REVIEWS

 WRITE A REVIEW

CORRESPONDENCE:
manup@stanford.edu

DATE RECEIVED:
March 15, 2016

DOI:
10.15200/winn.145806.66256

ARCHIVED:
March 15, 2016

CITATION:
Manu Prakash, My friend Lucas and Foldscope, The Winnower 3:e145806.66256, 2016, DOI: 10.15200/winn.145806.66256

© Prakash This article is distributed under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License, which permits unrestricted use, distribution, and redistribution in any medium, provided that the original author and source are credited.

I have known my friend Lucas for only a few months; but after Foldscoping outdoors for two or three times; he noticed that I collect tiny little things. And one day, I open the door and Lucas is at the door with his own bag of tiny little things and he tells me “I want to see this in the microscope”.. It was music to my ears and we got immediately to work.

Lucas parents are incredible naturalists/biologists; and Mr Lucas can name way way more more birds by spotting compared to me. But that story is for another day.

Here I finally ended up documenting his passion for the small world and his smile when he spots something under a Foldscope. Take a look.

I look forward to years of Foldscoping in the jungles of Peru with my friend Lucas.

Until next time..

Cheers

Manu