

Figure 1: Examples of CT scans of the influenza patients; patchy infiltration and middle lobe involvement were two parameters that were present at significantly different rates in the disease caused by three types of influenza subtypes. A: anterior; P: posterior.